

Alumna Lt. Megha Chouhan visits APSJC

It is with immense pride that Army Public School Jammu Cantt school welcomed Lt. Megha Chouhan, an alumna of the 2016 APSJC batch, to address the assembly. Her presence filled the ambience with inspiration and hope as she shared her personal journey of resilience, determination, and dedication to serving the nation.

Lt Megha Chouhan began by thanking the principal, vice principal, teachers and students on their warm welcome. She then recounted her academic journey after completing her stint in this marvellous school. She pursued a degree in Political Science at Gargi College, Delhi University, followed by a Master's degree in Political Science and International Relations. Her pursuit of excellence in academics set the foundation for her later achievements in life.

In her address, Megha spoke passionately about her journey toward joining the armed forces. After clearing the Combined Defense Services (CDS) exam, she faced numerous challenges, including the rigorous Services Selection Board (SSB) interviews. Despite being recommended three times, she experienced two merit outs, a testament to the difficulties she faced on her path. However, she emphasized that each setback was an opportunity to grow, learn, and build mental toughness. On her third attempt, her perseverance paid off, and she secured her position at the prestigious Officers Training Academy (OTA), Chennai.

Lt. Megha's words resonated deeply with the students as she openly discussed her failures and how they became stepping stones to success. She highlighted the importance of persistence and self-belief in achieving one's goals, regardless of the obstacles encountered along the way. Her story exemplified the strength of character needed to overcome adversity and pursue one's dreams.

Throughout her speech, she remained a humble and inspiring figure, sharing practical lessons from her own experiences. She urged the students to never give up, even in the face of failure, and to maintain focus on their goals. As a lieutenant in the armed forces, she serves as a role model for the next generation, embodying the virtues of discipline, courage, and dedication.

Principal Ms Puneet Kour presented a token of appreciation to Lt Megha Chouhan for her heartfelt and motivational lecture, thanking her for her being a force to reckon with.

Her interaction concluded with a thunderous applause, as the school community extended a warm welcome to an alumna who is sure to inspire through her exemplary journey of hard work, grit and determination.
